The Arts Council of New Westminster
Spring 2018

Executive Summary

The Arts Council of New Westminster (the Arts Council) aims to collaborate with the City, artists and the community to ensure the arts have a vibrant and beneficial presence in our community. With this Strategic Plan, our mandate is to bring community together through the arts and to establish the arts as essential to our community. This document is a description of what the Arts Council plans to do over the next three years to work towards this goal.

The Arts Council has a long history of creating a presence for the Arts in our city. The Arts Council was founded 1967 and incorporated in 1969. Over the years, many people have worked tirelessly and passionately to promote the arts within our community. This Board intends to build on the accomplishments of past Boards, Executive Directors, artists, city councils and community members.

The past three years have seen enormous growth of our organization, with increased presence in our city, support for artists, programming, funding and staff. As a Board, we wish to capitalize on this momentum to ensure continued growth, vibrancy and reach into the community.

The Arts Council continues to be committed to listening and being responsive to our members and the community at large. We are proud to have been able to hold five Community Roundtables strategically placed around the city so as to capture ideas from as many demographics as possible. We also hosted a monthlong online survey to gather ideas from our members and community. We have taken care to weave these ideas into this Strategic Plan and our Committee Work Plans.

We are proud of the plan that we are bringing forward. It is our deepest desire that the Arts Council continues to be the hub for the arts, artists and community members in our city and that we act as a catalyst in making the arts essential in our city.

Vision

Ensuring the arts have a vibrant and beneficial presence in the city; being the catalyst that brings people together through the arts, thereby enhancing the lives of community members; working to make the arts an essential part of the fabric of our community.

The Arts Council began the strategic planning process by reflecting on the path we have taken over the past three years. Our goals were to bring community together through the arts, to make the Arts Council relevant in our city and to create a vibrant presence for the arts in our city. We have accomplished all of this and more.

As the Arts Council was considering creating a vision for the next three years, we envisioned what it would be like to live in a community where the arts were essential to how we go about living our lives — that is, where the arts were so embedded in the culture of our city that they are everywhere and enjoyed by many, and that they are a defining factor of what New Westminster means, both to its residents and to those from outside our community.

We envision the Arts Council having a key role in facilitating the creation of a community where the arts are essential. We wish to be the catalyst that brings together people who are interested in defining what it means to have the arts an essential part of the culture of our city and in creating a plan of action together. Some of the first steps we are taking: continuing our Cultural Roundtables; ongoing networking sessions; bringing community members onto our committees and continuing to survey our members and community for their ideas that we can implement.

The Arts Council understands that it needs to put foundational documents and structures in place to facilitate community taking an active part in the realization of this Strategic Plan. This documentation will provide structure and focus to the work we will be doing over the next three years.

Finally, in order to expand our reach and our ability to see our strategic plan to fruition, we understand that we need to increase revenue, especially to support expanded human resources. A primary focus over the next three years is to develop a thriving donor program and explore other revenue.

We are invigorated by the vision we have created for the Arts Council moving forward and hope it is invigorating to all who read this document, so as to build energy and passion towards our vision. We invite all to join with us in making this vision a reality.

Mission

Be the hub for the arts and artists in New Westminster

The Arts Council has developed this Strategic Plan so that we can meet our mission of being this hub through fostering, supporting and promoting arts for all age groups, cultures and Indigenous community members. We will do this by:

- Acting as an information and resource centre for artistic and cultural projects
- Advocating for and supporting the arts and artists in our city
- Facilitating arts and cultural events in New Westminster
- Providing advocacy for and representation of the arts at all governmental levels
- Providing opportunities for community to come together through the enjoyment and experience of the arts and arts events
- Being an arts and culture community partner across a variety of sectors in New Westminster

Core Values

Inspiration and Artistic Excellence:

Providing meaningful experiences in a welcoming environment for visitors, participants and volunteers by offering a variety of high-quality artistic experiences for all ages; and creating opportunities to nurture and support our artists, so they may continue to grow and strive for artistic excellence.

Diversity and Recognition:

Creating a broad range of programs and gallery exhibitions to reflect the diversity of our community; and being inclusive and respectful of all cultures which have influenced both the history of and present day New Westminster.

Partnerships:

Involving and reaching out to others in formal, informal, new and established projects and working with the City and other like-minded community groups to ensure an arts presence in all celebrations and events.

Partnering with the Indigenous Communities:

Holding and creating space for Indigenous communities so as to provide opportunities to engage in artistic experiences and performances; and creating an awareness and appreciation of Indigenous cultures within the larger community of New Westminster.

Governance:

Ensuring the use of fair and transparent processes that adhere to principles of accountability, independence, merit, and equity.

Communications and Engagement:

Ensuring active communication and community engagement through our approach to planning, strategic directions and goals and program development, so as to serve and maintain relevancy to members and to the community.

We will continue to provide opportunities for feedback from our members and community to ensure transparency, relevancy and collaboration.

The Arts Council will continue to build and strengthen these relationships to seek input from the community, city, artists and arts organizations, in order to remain responsive and relevant.

This plan will be presented to community members through a Community Engagement meeting for feedback for the final document in June 2018. It will be presented to City Council July 2018 and to the Arts Council AGM attendees in November 2018 at Centennial Lodge.

Strategic Directions and Goals

The Arts Council has established several overarching strategic directions to guide the activities of the Council over the next three years and to support our Mission:

To build on the mission of the Arts Council as the hub for the arts in the city through our programming, events and activities, both at The Gallery at Queen's Park and within our community. To move more deeply into the fabric of our community to become an organization that is seen as indispensable by its members, city council and our community, and one that acts as a catalyst to promote the arts as essential to our community.

To continue to develop a Governance Committee structure and foundational documents so as to manage its affairs to ensure that the Arts Council is on a firm footing administratively and financially, thereby assuring sustainability and continuity over the long term.

To develop a strong and robust donor program in order to increase our reach and what we are able to do for artists, our members and our community at large, with a focus on raising funds to increase human resources.

To bring a greater number of community members onto our Committees in order to involve community in the fruition of this Strategic Plan and to continue to build the idea that we are ALL the Arts Council and everyone involved is important and has a valued contribution to make.

To build strong relationships with First Nations, all stakeholders and interested groups, so that together we further the aims of the arts community and ensure the Arts Council's unifying and leading role in bringing community together through the arts.*

*stakeholders: members of the Arts Council, artists, arts groups, supportive partners, the City of New Westminster, the media, academia, etc.; any person or group that has a stake in the success of the Arts Council of New Westminster.

Goals that have emerged from our Strategic Directions:

Goal 1: Be a hub for the arts and artistic community in New Westminster

Goal 4: Develop and nurture relationships

Goal 1: Be a hub for the arts and artistic community in New Westminster

The Arts Council holds a unique position within our city: its mandate dictates that we reach out to and engage with community in many ways. We seek to reinforce the feeling of community members that the arts are essential to a thriving community and contribute significantly to the quality of life in New Westminster.

The Arts Council is interested in continuing to explore ways the arts can be used in our city to draw community together in celebration, joy and passion. Developing a solid infrastructure of performance spaces, studios, and galleries and creating programs and a public presence can help the quality of city life and the connections between residents and the arts.

As these connections are made, we hope our community will come to see the Arts Council not as an entity separate from themselves, but one of which they are part of in a very real way and as an indispensable organization within our city. We see each of us as creative citizens and hope the advantages of a sustainable arts community will be understood and supported by all in our community, both financially and through involvement with the Arts Council and the arts.
